WITH RIVERS FROZEN THE EAST PROMISES A BIG CONFLICT

Germans Are Expected to Bring Forward Their Heaviest Artillery For a Fierce Attack on the Russian Center.

Amsterdam, Dec. 28.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Handelsblad states, on the authority of German officers, that there are 200,000 German troops in the Antwerp district.

"The plan of campaign," says the correspondent, "is to defend strongly the retreat from Roulers to Ghent, but to evacuate Ghent if necessary and defend Antwerp to the last."

London, Dec. 28.—Flight Commander Francis E. T. W. Hewlett, who is supposed to have lost his life in the Cuxhaven air raid, was the son of Maurice Hewlett, the novelist.

London, Dec. 28.—The Daily Mail's Copenhagen correspondent says he learns from Hamburg that considerable damage was done at Cuxhaven by the British raid.

London, Dec. 28.—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent, pointing out that the Germans still would be a long way from Warsaw even if they succeeded in forcing the passage of the rivers in Poland, says they have taken nothing by assault—neither towns nor positions—since Russia decided to reconstruct her strategic frontier.

"Tactically," the correspondent continues, "Germany is attacking with all attendant disadvantages, while Grand Duke Nicholas still holds the strategic initiative."

Movements Largely Brought to Stand.

London, Dec. 28.—On Easetrn and Western battle lines the movements today seemed to have lost something of their headway. On the western front the allied offensive has momentarily shown a lack of vigor, while General von Hindenburg, German commander, seems to have come to a standstill on the Vistula. Vienna admits a check to Austrian forces along the Galacian Carpathians.

French troops in the last three days made minor advances, judging from official Paris communications, but apparently not at the same rate of speed as reported a fortnight ago. Fog accounts in a measure for this slackening of efforts. With the exception of the capture of certain Anglo Indian trenches near the Lys last week, most of which the allies claim to have recaptured, the Germans' efforts to send back the allied line appear, British observers think, to have been generally abortive.

Cold Expected to Bring Activity

Petrograd, Dec. 28.—The belated cold spell reported in Poland is expected to precipitate a definite result in the German Polish campaign, now practically at a standstill. The weather factor, always important, has become paramount in this theatre of war, since the whole German invasion of Poland is predicated on the freezing of the soft miry ground, which impedes transports of heavy guns and favors Russian trench digging. The ground usually freezes by September 15.

Thus thwarted by mild weather, the activities around Mlawa have reached a complete lull and, after unsuccessful attempts to cross the Bzura river, the Germans still are resting on its left bank near Sochaczew. They have, in the meantime, shifted their attack southward toward the River Pilica, near which the ground is not marshy.

Austrian activity in the Kielce region and along the Rivers Nida, Donajec and both sides of the upper Vistula continues.

If the cold continues, freezing the Vistula, Bzura and Pilica rivers, the German attacks about Sochaczew, Ilow and Bolimow, will, Russian military authorities think, immediately recommence and the Austrians again will attempt to cross upper Vistula where the river narrows.

Dothan Game For Air Line League If Others Are

Theoretically the proposed "Air Line League," including Savannah, Waycross, Thomasville, Bainbridge and Valdosta, all located in the state of Georgia, and Montgomery, Troy and Dothan, in Alabama, looks mighty nice and would no doubt receive the hearty approval of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

Yet there are so many things to be considered in this proposed alliance that one should not jump at a conclusion too hurriedly. In the first place Savannah, they say, is contemplating getting out of the South Atlantic League, but these reports are always so indefinite one cannot put too much faith in them. Waycross, Thomasville and Valdosta are already tied up with a little Georgia league, while Bainbride has no organized baseball. Montgomery lost her franchise in the Southern League, but is still a proud old lady. Howevr, unprejudiced commentators sympathize with the sister in distress, and let us hope some day she will get down in her class and find peace.

For lo, these many years Dothan has had a keen hankering for baseball, and has made several unsuccessful attempts at landing a franchise, but there was always something in the way. Notwithstanding the fact that Dothan was on one occasion prepared to put up the necessary "spondulix," she knocked but the door was not opened unto her. But with all drawbacks the hopes of local "mugs" are still high, even if nothing ever comes of it.

Let us suppose Savvannah kicks out of the South Atlantic and Waycross, Thomasville and Valdosta, break from their anchorings, and Montgomery swallows her pride and joins in the chorus. That would leave only Bainbridge and Dothan, and the former might come across. There has not been much talk about it here, but we imagine, and everybody has a right to do that—Dothan will come in. If the movement is gotten underway, take it from the Wiregrass that Dothan will be found in the first rank, shouldering her share. That is Dothan's well known way.

This plan, if we are not mistaken started in Valdosta, Ga., and we hope that it will be carried to a successful conclusion. It does look inconsistent to match some of the larger cities with the smaller towns, but sometimes small towns support baseball teams in a surprising manner—that is when the "home club" is winning. If the "home club" is not winning, that brings about more talk.

But, at any rate, The Eagle would like to see the "Air Line League" organized, and we assure our larger sisters of the proposed alliance that if these good things come about, they had better keep their strongest eye on Dothan, for already we see the pennant dangling invitingly.

The writer telephoned one of Dothan's leading baseball promoters this morning and asked him what he though of the proposed circuit. "Times are kinder hard," he said, "but if the other towns come across, Dothan will do her part." That is the sentiment here exactly.

WOMAN TAKES POISON FOR ASPIRIN DOSE

Mrs. Eleanor Guilford Swallows Poison, Believing it Aspirin, During a Storm This Morning. —Dies Shortly Afterwards.

By taking poison through mistake, Mrs. Eleanor Guilford, age about 55, who lives out East Main street, ended her life this morning about 8 o'clock. The deadly potion was taken about 6 o'cock, during a storm. Mrs. Guilford's daughter was awakened by the moan's of her mother, and aid was summoned. The attending physician heard Mrs. Guilford say "it was not aspirin, it was mellow." She died without making any statement other than the few words she mustered enough strength to utter to the doctor.

Mrs. Eleanor Guilford had purchased some poison, which was used for killing skunks about the place. A few night ago a negro boy, who lived in that community, came to the home of Mrs. Guilford and wanted to borrow some of the stuff, but her daughter told the negro it was all gone.

The theory is that Mrs. Guilford became nervous during a storm early this morning, and got up. She wanted something to soothe her nerves, and began looking for aspirin. She found the box of poison, which all thought had been used up. Through mistake she swallowed a dose of the deadly stuff, believing it to be aspirin. Although a physician and other aid was summoned, Mrs. Guilford died.

The deceased had many friends in Dothan and in other sections where she was known. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lillie Bachelor, and by two grandchildren, Miss Lillian Walsh and J. C. Bachelor. Her sisters who are living, are Mrs. Viola Lathram, of Luverne; Mrs. J. L. Darby, of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. J. W. T. Corbitt, of Eufaula; Mrs. J. W. Rivers, Dothan; Mrs. R. W. Liscuby, Dothan; brothers, E. H. Hill, Dothan; O. M. Hill, Waycross, Ga.; and Dr. A. S. Hill of Panama City, Fla.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced.

London, Dec. 28.—The American relief committee today renewed the lease for its present offices for six months. Demands on the committee continue to be heavy and it has so much to do that it is not possible to move its offices to the embassy.

The average number of Americans assisted by the committee weekly is about twenty-five. They reached London chiefly from the continent. Of the $300,000 appropriated by the United States several months ago to assist stranded Americans there remained today about $100,000.

N. Y. Senator's Daughter Makes Debut

MISS AGNES O'GORMAN.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Senator and Mrs. James O'Gorman of New York gave a debut tea party for their daughters, Miss Agnes and Miss Anna O'Gorman, at their residence at No. 2221 R. Street N. W. The wives of Senators Hitchcock, Pittman, and Walsh, Mrs. Frank D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Howard Hume, were at the tea table. The party was attended by all the elite of Washington. Miss Anna O'Gorman wore a frock of nile green charmeuse, with a bodice of crystal embroidery; Miss Agnes was gowned in shell pink chiffon over satin with trimming of iridiscent passementerie, and both carried old fashion boquets in lace holders.

Dothan Soaked By Heavy Showers

Umbrellas and raincoats are valuable assets—especially on days like this. In the early morning hours, long before breakfast time, the rain fell in torrents. It is now 11 o'clock and still it rains, with a brief cessation between showers.

Today lots of people are wondering what they would do if it was not raining. In view of the fact that they can't very well stop the rain, without unlooked for complications arising, the next best thought is what they are going to do while it rains. The answer is: nothing. That is, they stick around the office and swap stories or hang around the fireside at their homes, like sticking plaster, while wifey prepares dinner or bosses the cook while she does—provided of course, said cook will stand for the bossing.

Then a few brave souls ventured fourth on the streets for a soaking, which they expected and which they got. But let them go home and get their overcoats, for the weather man promises colder weather.

CANADIAN TROOPS SHOOT AMERICANS

Were Hunting Ducks Out of Season in Canada, Secretary Bryan is Told.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 28.—One American was instantly killed and another seriously wounded by Canadian troops patrolling the Canadian border at Fort Erie, Ontario, opposite Buffalo, today. The men were hunting ducks out of season in the Niagara river and in Canadian waters. Provincial Police Officer Delaney of Fort Erie, ordered them to stop shooting. They declined, and Delaney called upon a corporal and two privates of the Forty-fourth battalion of the Canadian militia for assistance.

The corporal ordered the men to come ashore. Instead they headed their boat for the American shore, and were hurrying away when at the order of Delaney the soldiers fired upon them.

Walter Smith was shot dead and Charles Dorsch was seriously wounded. Both lived in Buffalo.

Secretary Bryan was notified of the shooting by Vice Consul Curtis of Fort Erie.

"Whether complications will result is a debatable question," said Curtis. "While two Americans were shot the information available indicates they were shooting ducks without a Canadian license and were in Canadian waters, where they had no right to be under the circumstances. No arrests have been made as a result of the shooting."

MISS GENEVIEVE CLARK TO WED MR. THOMPSON

Speaker's Daughter Announces Engagement to New Orleans Publisher.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Numerous messages of congratulation from all parts of the country were received today by Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, whose engagement to James M. Thompson, publisher of the New Orleans Item, was announced last night. The wedding will probably take place in June at the Clark home in Bowling Green, Mo. Numerous social affairs will be given Miss Clark in Washington during the balance of the year and spring. The bride-elect is 20 years old. Mr. Thompson is a native of Summit Peak, W. Va., and is a graduate of Johns Hopkins university of Baltimore.

FRANK IS GRANTED RIGHT OF APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 28.—If the supreme court grants the appeal of Leo M. Frank from the denial of the writ of habeas corpus submitted to Judge Newman, which was certified yesterday by Justice Lamar, of the supreme bench, a long and tedious fight will again be launched for the life of the doomed man—this time in the federal courts.

Justice Lamar gave his certificate to the appeal Monday morning. The case has now become a part of the calendar of the nation's highest tribunal, and it is anticipated will be argued within two months or less. This action of the supreme court justice has created widespread speculation and interest among the thousands who have followed the legal ramifications of the Frank case.

Before Newman Again.

In event the supreme court upholds the denial of Judge Newman the case will be ended so far as the courts are concerned. If however, Judge Newman's verdict is reversed, the case will again be sent before him, this time for the presentation of proof of the allegations made in the motion last Saturday for habeas corpus proceedings.

In short, if Judge Newman is reversed he must hear the evidence of both sides in substantiation and rebuttal of the allegations made by the defense in the habeas corpus hearing. If Judge Newman, in this case, decides adversely to Frank his attorneys have the right to appeal again to the United States supreme court.

If decided in favor of Frank, the prosecution has the right for appeal. In each instance, howl ever, the certificate of Judge Newman must be appended to the appeal, just as is the case in appeals to the state supreme court from superior court.

Much speculation ensued over the attitude of the prosecution if the federal courts eventually decided to free Frank. It was the consensus of legal opinion, however, that the plea of "former jeopardy" would forestall all probability of a second indictment.

Say State Lost Jurisdiction.

The entire argument of Frank attorneys is based on the allegation that the Georgia courts lost jurisdiction over him when they permitted his attorneys to waive his presence in the courtroom at the time of the verdict, which action, the defense contends, was unconstitutional and illegal.

The evidence that will be submitted before Judge Newman in case the supreme court reverses his decision and sends the Frank case back into the tribunal will be the same line of evidence that was heard before Judge Roan when the constitutional question upset the verdict was first brought into the courts.

PRESIDENT IS 58, SPENDS BIRTHDAY QUIETLY AT HOME

Washington, Dec. 29.—President Wilson today was fifty-eight years old. No special celebration marked the occasion, the president spending the day surrounded by his family, while numerous letters and telegrams of congratulation poured in at the white house. Some of them from personal friends in all parts of the country, while others were from rulers of the world powers.

In continuation of his plans to rest during the holidays, President Wilson contemplates seeing few callers this week. He was to confer with Representative Underwood on the administration legislative program and to receive a delegation of Sunday School pupils from New Jersey.

REFUGEES SHIP ON AMERICAN CRUISER

Tennessee Transports 500 from Jaffa to Alexandria, According to Report.

Washington, Dec. 28.—About 500 refugees of different nationalities are being transported from Jaffa to Alexandria on the United States cruiser Tennessee, Captain Decker, her commander, today reported to the navy department.

Secretary Daniels gave out the following statement regarding Captain Decker's action:

"A cablegram dated 6 p. m., Dec. 27, was received at the navy department from Captain Decker of the Tennessee, stating, that the Tennessee is transporting about 500 refugees of different nationalities from Jaffa to Alexandria. The refugees were unable to get passage from Jaffa by any other means.

"Captain Decker states that his action was taken after requests from the consuls had been made and approved by Ambassador Morgenthau, and after permission had been given by the Turkish authorities."

Secretary Daniels added that Captain Decker had not yet replied to his inquiry concerning the demonstrations at Tripoli, Syria. The secretary believes Captain Decker has not yet received his message.

How to Cure Pellagra.

Dr. Joseph Goldberger, of the United States health department who is in the south making a study of pellagra says that all the medicine in the world cannot cure it, yet it can be cured by eating certain kinds of food. It is a simple remedy, yet he says it is a positive cure.

According to Dr. Goldberger too much salt pork, corn bread and molasses is the principal cause of pellagra in the south. He says that beans, peas, lean meat, eggs and milk will cure any case of pellagra in the south. He also says that the disease is not contagious; neither is it hereditary.

Dr. Goldberger has made a close study of this disease and is in position to know what he is talking about. It does not take medicine to cure it.

"It is caused by improper diet and can be cured with proper diet," says Dr. Goldberger. "Corn and not necessarily spoiled corn, is the principal offender and other starchy foods and fats are in the same class.

"Pellagra might be called a disease of the pocketbook. Did you ever hear of a rich man having it? No; because he can afford the very foods that will prevent it, while the poor man eats the same things day in and day out. The rich man has milk, lean meat, eggs, beans and peas with his meals, while the poor man has little else besides his corn bread, molasses, biscuit, starchy and fat foods.

"I do not mean that a person should not eat corn products, sweets or fats, for they are healthy. The point is this: eat eggs, beans, peas, and milk also, in order to balance your rations. Take as much of one as you would of the other, but be sure that you get both."

Dr. Goldberger says that it is possible there may be much more pellagra next spring than ever before because the war has raised the prices of these proteids and makes it harder for the poor to obtain them. Anyway he has given us all the remedy for which we are thankful and it may be there will not be as many cases this spring as he looks for.

The above article is taken from the Montgomery Journal. We reprint it, and make this comment, because there have been many cases of pellagra in this section of Alabama, as, indeed, can be found all over the south.

So far as our information goes, the doctors so far have found no cure for pellagra. They all treat the patients, but none have offered to tell us what caused it, with but few exceptions. Dr. Goldberger ventures to intimate that it is a poor man's disease, or at least, is confined to that class of people, who eat about the same thing day after day. Too much salt pork, bread and molasses, may cause this disease, but will Dr. Goldberger tell us what kept the people from dying from pellagra some eight or ten years ago?

We of the South have eaten a good deal of that kind of truck [illegible] generation or two, in fact, [illegible] know how long that [illegible] occupying a prominent place on the menu. And, yet, it was day before yesterday, so to speak, when the doctors found pellagra, and tagged it with a name. The first man, or one of the first, who ventured a cause, said it was due to eating meal from damaged corn. Others thought it might have been caused from the bite of some fly, or insect, but it doesn't seem the rank and file of the medical profession has seen fit to give out any one definite thing that causes pellagra. But surely, if this disease is caused by what Dr. Goldberger says, we were due to have had pellagra several hundred years ago. But did the people die of this, or similar disease then, and they didn't know what it was?

Evidently, if Goldberger is correct, some bad diagnosis work has been done by the doctors for several hundred years.

But the disease has become alarming in some sections, and the people will find out what causes it after a while. The doctors never stop till they find out the cause, and Dr. Goldberger's statement will be checked up thoroughly, after a time.

Take a Look at Yourself.

Mobile Item. . . . . .

Have you ever stopped to consider how many times in the year you have criticized your fellow man without once giving a thought to yourself or your way of doing? Did it ever occur to you that the mote you discovered in the other fellow's eye could be found in your own if you paused sufficiently long before the mirror and looked? The New England Homestead offers a suggestion which has sound philosophy in every line and it goes as follows:

"It's a good thing at least once a year for every farmer to stand aside and look at his place as if it belonged to some other fellow, and pick out the things this other fellow has left undone. Sticking too close to the work sometimes narrows a man's vision and makes him overlook important things. By going past a pile of rubbish four or five times a day you finally come to think it belongs there, just as a man will sometimes plow around an old stump year after year as if it were established by Divine mandate."

The above suggestion fits the man in every walk of life, not only the farmer but the merchant, mill man, doctor, lawyer, and in fact all mankind, not excepting the members of the Fourth Estate. It would not be an unwise proposition for every man, once in awhile for the individual, to put himself in another man's shoes and go over his own method of living and see if he could not find some needed change for the better not only of himself but others as well. Al G. Field, the well known minstrel, who once a year comes to Mobile, where he has hosts of friends, recently wrote a book—not to offer on the counter for sale, but to pass around to those who are his intimates—to which he gave the title, "Watch Yourself Go By." It is a review of himself as child, boy and man, and it is a remarkable story. Mr. Field says that since seeing his life in book form he finds much food for thought and he knows that by going over his own method of living he found where he had missed many opportunities for helping the other fellow. It has, he said, made him "give up the habit of fault-finding in the other fellow."

The experiment of woman suffrage will be made, whatever our theories and prejudices may be. Women are the most religious, the most moral and the most sober portion of the American people, and it is not easy to understand why their influence in public life is dreaded.—Bishop John Lancaster Spaulding.

Mark Twain on Woman Suffrage.

A standing argument against woman suffrage has always been that women could not go to the polls without being insulted. The arguments against woman suffrage have always taken the easy form of prophecy. The prophets have been prophesying ever since the woman's rights movements began in Eighteen Hundred Forty-eight—and in forty-seven years they have never scored a hit.

Men ought to begin to feel a sort of respect for their mothers and wives and sisters by this time. The women deserve a change of attitude like that, for they have wrought well. In forty-seven years they have swept an imposingly large number of unfair laws from the statute books of America. In that brief time these serfs have set themselves free—essentially. Men could not have done so much for themselves in that time without bloodshed—at least they never have; and that is argument that they didn't know how. The women have accomplished a peaceful revolution, and a very beneficent one; and yet that has not convinced the average man that they are intelligent and have courage and energy and perseverance and fortitude. It takes much to convince the average man of anything; and perhaps nothing can ever make him realize that he is the average woman's inferior, yet in several important details the evidences seem to show that that is what he is. Man has ruled the human race from the beginning—but he should remember that it was a dull world; but it is not such a dull world now, and is growing less and less dull all the time.—Mark Twain.

Just Don't Know Any Better.

The Birmingham Ledger still persists in calling sorghum syrup something fine. We shall not argue the point. We don't believe, however, The Ledger man is accustomed to scooping up Southeast Alabama cane syrup on hot biscuits, else he wouldn't mention sorghum in the same breath with it. Up there, in the Birmingham district, where New Orleans molasses and sorghum, or "reboiled," is so common, one is likely to go into ecstatic joy over that kind of sweetness, but it's because, as aforesaid, they don't know the difference. But if they are satisfied with it, we shall not say them nay. So far, we haven't made much more cane syrup down here than we can use.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess", says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good.

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

PUT RICH MAN OFF THE CAR

Then "Millionaire" New Yorker Worth $100,000 Was Unable to Borrow a Cent.

"I never felt particularly sorry for beggars until a few years ago," said a widely known New York business man whose check is good for $100,000, "but I know how it feels to be without a cent in your pocket and unable to borrow a nickel. I started for home the other night on a trolley car, and when the conductor came for my fare I found that I didn't have a cent in my clothes.

"'Come, cough up, there,' said the conductor, as I felt embarrassedly in every pocket. 'I suppose you'll say you lost your fare. Well, that don't go, see. Too many try to work that on me.'

"All eyes were upon me and many smiled, but no one offered to come to the rescue. When we reached the other side of the Brooklyn bridge I got off and went into several stores, where I thought I would have no difficulty in borrowing car fare. But although I produced cards and letters to prove my identity not a single one would give me a cent. I was finally forced to walk the two miles to my house. New York is certainly a chilly town when you're broke."

EXECUTIONER IS KEPT BUSY

Wholesale Killings in China Necessary to Suppress the Threatened Revolutions.

That 28 executions within three days is not an unusual occurrence in China under the government of Yuan Shi Kai was the statement made by the Rev. Newton Dubs, son of Bishop Rudolph Dubs, and a missionary to Changsha, province of Hunan, China, under the control of the United Evangelical church. Mr. Dubs has only recently reached Baltimore after spending 14 years as a missionary in China.

Speaking of the precarious position of any government in China, Mr. Dubs said that only wholesale executions were able to suppress the revolutionaries. The ordinary citizens he described as peace-loving and desirous of having stable government.

Mr. Dubs thinks that the European war threatens disaster to China. She is at the mercy of Japan, despite the protestations of good faith made by that country, he said. China is also unable to float the loan that is immediately necessary for the maintenance of her government.

FEARFUL MORTALITY.

Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker of the City temple, London, once had a collection, to the announcement of which he added with deep pathos: "Widows and orphans will not be expected to contribute."

A few Sundays later there was another collection for the same object.

"This time," said the preacher, "widows and orphans will not be exempt; for no battle ever made so many widows and orphans as the announcement made on the previous Sunday."

NEW YORK AND BELGIUM.

The population of Belgium is 7,516,000, that of New York 9,400,000. New York has more people than any one of these European countries: Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Bulgaria, Servia, Roumania, Montenegro, Switzerland. It has almost as many as Scotland and Ireland combined. It has more than all Canada, and twice as many as Australia.

HIS OBVIOUS OBJECT.

"I guess he wants to ring the belle."

KILLED BEAR WITH A CLUB

Maine Hunter Claims to Have Outmatched Bruin in a Hand-to-Hand Conflict.

Undeterred by the fate of the bruin that met Joe Knowles, bears are unusually numerous in the dense Maine woods this fall, I am told, remarks a correspondent of the Boston Post.

There was sent to Boston recently to be served as steaks and fricasee, a bear that perished in hand-to-hand conflict with Arthur M. Neal, an inspector on the Boston & Maine railroad.

(I am telling this for the particular benefit of those who are doubtful of the ability of Mr. Knowles to kill a bear, when armed only with a club.)

Mr. Neal tells how he fired a shotgun at the bear, then started for bruin with his hunting knife. But the bear gave him a blow with his paws that hurled the hunter 20 feet.

Then it was up to Mr. Neal to apply "primitive man" tactics. He says:

"I caught up a piece of timber on the road and brought the stick down on the bear's head with full force. Down he went, but he came back for more, and I was hard pressed for a few moments. Finally he sank to the earth without power to come back."

TAKES LONG HIKE TO CURE CIGARETTE HABIT

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 28.—In the first lap of a 4,000 mile journey to get away from cigarettes, C. W. Cornell, a Mound City boy, made a brief stop in St. Joseph. Cornell had smoked 120,000 cigarettes and had made up his mind that he would die unless he broke off the habit. He never was without a cigarette, and his range was from 30 to 80 a day. If he rolled them himself he could work fast enough to smoke about 80 but by buying them already made he could push the score up to 80. He used two packages of tobacco a day, and if he smoked tailor mades he could invest $2.50 in the day's orgy.

Cornell is a baker by trade and is 20 years old. When he made up his mind to swear off and run away he took a week in the country to follow a stirring plow and get his wind before starting out. He expects to go to El Paso and visit an uncle there until the weather favors a start to New York, where he will seek a job at his trade. He believes that enough bakers will start west to the Panama exposition to leave a good chance for him.

Cornell is not selling picture postcards of himself, is not exploiting any article, and is not walking on a wager. His only scheme is to make cigarette talks at moving picture shows along his way. He has no particular scheme, wears starched shirts and "boiled" collars, a cap and a khaki suit, with puttees. He carries an oil-cloth pack containing his clothing.

LIGTS WENT OUT BUT THE DANCERS DIDN'T

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 29.—Trotting tirelessly and thoughtlessly to the timely tune of "Ballin' the Jack," a hundred couples, all dressed up with some place to go, got lost between the Castle Canter and the Mixixe Muddle at the Exchange last night when the lights went out.

Blondes blushed and brunettes brightened, it is supposed, when at the first leader's whistle they were thrown into darkness. A few faint fright screams were heard; a few dress collars bent forward and dancers doing the Dinty Moore Drag saw darkness pull a fall upon the polished floor. Then the light man did a welcome wag, and before the musicians had time to change from Tipperary to Chopin the brilliance was again upon the sociable sorority situation.

Then it was "on with the dance."

Christmas Prayer of A Mother—

By Dr. Frank Crane.

This is the prayer of a mother to the God that made her:

Doutless, O God, Thou art very great, mighty are Thy suns and moons, majestic is Thy mind of destiny, steel and terrible are Thy laws and judgments; yet in Thy heart has been the thought to create children and to give them to mothers to bear and to love; and this thought is that door at which I and all mothers stand and knock unafraid.

God, Thou are the east and west from whence blows the influences that move the hearts of men.

Christmas, the breath of God, is abroad in the world. "Peace on earth and good will toward men". That is the breath of God.

I thank Thee for this wind, soft as spring, sweet as Paradise, that stirs the leaves of all spirits.

Amen.

Today the story of the birth of Christ is running through my mind as a river of water of life, whereat my thoughts drink, as angels.

I am glad that a woman bore Him and gave her breast to the Teacher of the world.

I am glad I, too, am a mother, and that ever a waking soul looked up into my eyes as I look up to heaven, for I am but a baby in thine arms, Almighty Father, and I gaze at Thee wondering—at Thee unknown, yet infinitely kind. This my child has taught me.

I thank Thee for those three wise men who worshipped at the manger, and for all the wisdom and strength that have bowed in service and loyalty before mother and child.

I thank Thee for every Madonna, printed, painted, carved, or dreamed, where the world's Saviour is a child in a woman's arms.

I am glad I am a woman with the heart of a woman.

Amen.

I thank Thee that on this one golden day the shadow of the Child of Heaven and Earth lies upon every family; a shadow which is light, a light which is love.

Forgive my greatest sin, the sin of not loving enough.

Forgive my worst unfaith, the fear of faith.

Forgive my wickedest doubt, the doubt that love is not almighty.

Forgive my deepest ignorance, the folly that love is not always wisest.

Thou who art all love, forgive whatever has been and is in me that is not love.

And if the judgment be upon Thy shoulders, O Christ, then when my sins shall rise before Thee, whether they be the weakness of flesh or the pride of a wayward will, remember that I am a sister of Mary and be very merciful.

Amen.

And when I come to die take me, O Guide of passing souls, I care not to what star, if not it be where the souls of little children go and where this blessed breath of Christmas is ever in the air.

Amen.

DANDRUFF WON'T HAVE A HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The Easiest and Best Way Is to Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single germ and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and irritation of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, free from dirt and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it ultimately ruins the hair and makes it fall out. For a nickel it will give strength, vigor, color, beauty and life to hair, and every-[illegible] You can get liquid arvon [illegible] It is inexpensive and [illegible] the world.

Troops Begin Leaving Colorado This Week

Denver, Colo., Dec. 28.—The gradual withdrawal of federal troops from the Colorado coal fields, where they have been on strike duty since last April, will begin this week, according to Governor Ammons, who with Governor-elect Carlson, returned today from a conference with President Wilson at Washington.

The soldiers stationed in Routt county will be the first to go, he said, and they will be followed by the troops in Boulder, Weld and Fremont counties. Governor Ammons intimated that some time might elapse before all of the federal forces were taken from southern Colorado, the center of the strike disturbances.

GOVERNMENT TO ISSUE A NEW DAILY PAPES

Washington, Dec. 28.—To promote the foreign commerce of the United States the government will go into the newspaper business January 2, next, when the first number of The Daily Commercial Report will be issued by the Department of Commerce. In it will be carried all important commercial cablegrams received from the attaches at the various embassies abroad and from consular officers throughout the world. It also will contain brief extracts of the findings of investigators of the department in many lines of American enterprise and will present to the business world each day the gist of the business of the Department of Commerce for the preceding day.

The plan for a live, up-to-the-minute commercial daily was worked out by Dr. E. E. Pratt, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The new publication will take the place of the Daily consular reports now issued. Hereafter the long mail reports from American consular officers reviewing business conditions and opportunities in their respective sections will be published at supplements to the Commercial report.

E. A. Brand, assistant chief of the bureau who returned today from an extended tour of inspection of the eight new branches were meeting with a cordial reception from bussiness houses and were working to full capacity in co-operation with merchants and manufacturers.
